

Troy Cicero is president and chief skill officer of MulticultuReal Communications, Inc. He is a dynamic and engaging Diversity and Inclusion facilitator and consultant with nearly two decades of consulting services to various corporate clients. Highly effective at communicating important ideas in practical, useful ways that encourage individual and institutional accountability, Troy's unique facilitation style and use of hands-on strategies ensure that all individuals are enlightened and empowered to achieve their organizational goals. An emotional intelligence strategist, Troy has an uncanny ability to convey genuine empathy and respect as he develops best methods to improve working relationships and strengthen organizational culture. Troy holds a B.A. Degree in Marketing from Loras College, and actively pursues his vision of mentoring youth and combating bullying with middle and high school students.